CRITICAL AREAS INQUIRY REVIEW
INFORMATION and FORM

For alternate formats, call 206-296-6600.

On the opposite side (page two) of this sheet is a request form for a King County Department of Development and Environmental Services (DDES) Critical Areas Preliminary Review. The Critical Areas Office provides a review service to inform prospective applicants about additional information or special studies that would be required for construction on a given piece of property under the King County Critical Areas Ordinance (Zoning Code Section 21A.24) before they make formal application for a building or other type of development permit.

This review is not a comprehensive site evaluation and will not provide specific development recommendations. If such recommendations are desired, an appropriate consultant should be retained to review the subject property.

The current hourly rate ($144.90/hour as of January 1, 2004) per staff person will be charged for this review. You will be charged for all time spent on this review, including office time, driving time, and field time. A deposit is required. More fee information is available at Permit Fee Estimates on the DDES Web site at www.metrokc.gov/ddes, or for questions, contact DDES at 206-296-6600.

The review will consist of a visit to the subject site by Critical Areas staff and a review of any additional reports or information provided. Based on the information gathered, Critical Areas staff will determine if specific conditions will be applied to the proposed project, or if further information or specific studies will be required. You will be notified by letter of the results of our review.

These reviews are based on the information available at the time of the review. If additional relevant information becomes available during review of a subsequent formal building/development permit application, the Critical Areas Section may place additional conditions or request additional studies beyond those indicated during the pre-application review.

The decisions made during this review process are based on the codes and guidelines in effect at that time. If these change prior to application for a building/development permit, the permit will be subject to the regulations in effect at the time of application. This preliminary review process covers only critical areas issues. There frequently are additional conditions or limitations stipulated by other DDES offices that are not addressed during this initial critical areas review.

Because of scheduling difficulties, Critical Areas staff cannot make appointments to meet applicants on-site. It is critical that sufficient information be supplied with the pre-application review request to clearly indicate the location of the property and the nature of the proposed construction. Flagging of the property corners and the location of proposed buildings must be provided by the applicant.

Please submit the signed and completed application form, site plan, additional supporting information, and the fee deposit to:
